A Notorious Proposition
2 years ago, while on assignment for the Crown, darkly handsome Garrett Burke left Lady Ivy Wentworth sleeping naked in his bed as he went in search of the missing Martello diamonds. After apprehending the dastardly thief, he intended to spend the rest of his life in the arms of the auburn-haired beauty. But when the case came to a shocking & dangerous end, Garrett was certain he’d been betrayed. Ivy once loved Garrett with a virtuous heart, but these days she can barely stand him. Arriving at a deserted estate on a mysterious errand, she never expected to see him again, nor feel the same ecstasy she once did at his ouch. Now, joined with him in the search for the legendary jewels, she is willing to risk everything. Everything, that is, except her heart.

Alexandra Lang-Carlin

But she swore that 1 day she would marry the dashing, fair-haired lord. Restored to her rightful place as heiress to an English earl, she was caught up in a new life of aristocratic wealth & haunting tragedy. Never again would she be an innocent girl; never would she forget the man whose soul-shattering passion had sent her soaring on.

Dangerous
At five & twenty, Prudence Merryweather knew very well the risks a woman took by visiting a gentleman in the dead of night. But bearding the notorious Earl of Angelstone in his den was the only way to stop him from engaging her hot headed brother in a duel. And that was why she found herself ushered into Sebastian’s forbidding presence at 3 in the morning – and thoroughly kissed before dawn. She was a country bred innocent – and an intriguing experience for a man who dwelt more in the shadows than in the sunshine. Yet as her boldness drew Prue into one dangerous episode after another. Sebastian found himself torn between a raging hunger to possess her & a driving need to protect her. And the reckless beauty would soon need all the protection she could get.

The River Knows
The first kiss occurred in a dimly lit hallway on the upper floor of Elwin Hastings's grand house. Louisa Bryce never saw it coming. Of course, handsome, wealthy Anthony Stalbridge couldn’t possibly have had romantic intentions. The kiss was merely meant to distract the armed guard about to catch the 2 unlikely sleuths. After all, the only thing these 2 interlopers have in common is a passionate interest in uncovering the dastardly secrets of Mr. Hastings — a prominent member of Society whom they suspect of murder. Brought together by their desire for the truth, Anthony & Louisa finally discover the incriminating evidence they’re looking for. But bringing Hastings to justice will be more perilous than they anticipate, especially since their thrilling very well get in the way.

Dangerous Games
When Nicholas Barrington, eldest son of the Earl of Ulcombe, first met Melissa Seacourt, he suspected something was amiss. The desperation he sensed beneath her well bred beauty haunted him. He didn’t realize how desperate Melissa really was until he found her again at a Newmarket gambling club – being auctioned off by her father to the highest bidder. So, for a mere 20,000 guineas, Nick bought himself a wife. But their troubles were just beginning. With a villain hot on their heels, & a fortune – and their lives – hanging in the balance, Nick & Melissa would soon gamble everything on the most dangerous & irresistible game of all: their growing love.

Anna Maxted
Being Committed
After Hannah finds herself divorced at the age of 20, she is convinced you have to be out of your mind (or desperate) to tie the knot. And life without a husband of 31 is just fine, thank you very much. She has a steady job as a private investigator (albeit a mediocre one), a devoted boyfriend, Jason, & a wonderful relationship with her dad (it’s a shame her mother is such a lost cause). Then, on a romantic weekend at a faux ancient castle, Jason proposes marriage, leaving Hannah with no choice but the obvious, to turn him down cold. Much to her horror, only 4 weeks later, Jason is engaged to his next door neighbor, a fine baker & proficient seamstress. Has Hannah blown her last chance at a solid relationship? Jason agrees to give her another chance, but only if she meets his terms – among them a promise to address her issues with her ex husband, Jack. Brimming with her characteristic blend of humor & heartache, Anna Maxted’s Being Committed is a perceptive look at intimacy (and its substitutes), commitment phobia, & the power others have over us.

Anne Avery
The Highayman’s Daughter
Though her father had been the legendary highwayman who lost his life for the innkeeper’s daughter he loved, down to earth Lizzie Tynsdale had no use for romance. She had enough to do running the inn she’d inherited without falling for a handsome face or a pair of broad shoulders. But when a mysterious guest appeared at the inn one stormy night, it seemed history was destined to repeat itself. Once again, the redcoats were ordered to hunt down an innocent man, & Lizzie, like her mother before her, would risk her own safety to prevent his capture. For when the dark eyed stranger took her in his arms for a heart stopping kiss, she understood how a woman could defy death itself for the man of her dreams.

Anne Mallory
Masquerading the Marquess
Calliope Minton is never far from scandal. And her greatest pleasure is capturing the nobility at their worst. Donning a daring disguise, she poses as a society courtesan to get closer to London’s leading bachelor. However, her ruse might have brought Calliope too close to her favorite target: James Trenton, Marquess of Angelford, a man who appears less foolish & more dashing with every meeting. James is certain the enchantress is hiding something – and she is driving him mad with desire & curiosity. Already occupied with trying to expose the ‘artist’ who has been humiliating him in the papers, James doesn’t need another mystery! But all the lady’s secrets will be revealed when they are forced to join together to find a vanished mutual acquaintance – and perilous circumstance tosses the marquess’s bewitching, irresistible adversary into his arms.

Anne Rivers Siddons
Heartbreak Hotel
In Montgomery, Alabama, Martin Luther King has organized a bus boycott. In Tuscaloosa, outrage surrounds the entrance of the state university’s first black student. But at little Randolph University, sweltering in the summer heat, life remains dreamily the same. At Kappa House, the sorority sisters talk of who has pinned whom, & whether they can sneak past their housemother so they can party at an out of town bar. Even among this privileged gourp pretty, popular Kappa sister Maggie Deloach is unquestionably one of the elite until she commits a single act of defiance & courage that forever alters the way others think of her, & how Maggie thinks of herself.

Coming from the wrong side of the tracks (which lay right outside his office), Quint has single handedly revived his father’s once ailing law practice with an assortment of questionable clients, earning the scorn of the Saxon family practice. Having conquered Rachel in a previous courtroom encounter, Quint relishes the opportunity of opposing the patrician beauty again – especially with an outrageous case featuring a flashy widow of dubious virtue. As their courtroom battle of wits escalates, the charismatic counselor begins to defrost the Freezer Queen’s impenetrable facade, allowing Quint to legally maneuver his way into Rachel’s all too eager heart.

Her heart pounding with fear & longing, Charlotte Langston set sail from India for England, the homeland she had not seen for so many years, desperate to find the man whose love had once made her life a paradise. How well she remembered the day they met, when, pistol drawn, she’d charged into the private garden of Delhi’s commander in chief & challenged the soldiers who were trespassing there. Captain Edward Langston had been handsome, strong, & despite his part in the day’s mischief, possessed of a confidence that was instantly compelling. Only 16, Charlotte had been innocent enough to ignore her maidservant’s dark foreboding, headstrong enough to defy her old fashioned father & marry a man he considered an ambitious, arrogant upstart. Honeymooning in the shadow of the Taj Mahal, Charlotte had glowed with incandescent love. But barely 2 months later, her happiness had been shattered by a bloody native uprising that left her widowed & in despair. Now, 10 years later, Charlotte was leaving the heat & dust of India to embark upon a new, uncertain future to find the beloved husband who, she had just discovered, was miraculously still alive.

She moved past him, into the main room of the suite. As with the others, preparation had begun. She ignored the flowers, the laughing young face of the dead on the wall screen, in images on easels, the glossy white coffin draped in pink & purple flowers – bold blossoms on ice. She checked the terraces, the parlors, the stairways, the restrooms, & the small meditation room across the corridor. All exits would be covered by electronic eyes & warm bodies. She & Peabody had completed runs on every staff member, & secondary runs on every staff member assigned to duty that day. She would have plain clothes officers, including herself, mingling with the mourners. And all of them would be wired. Every cop under her command had been briefed & rebriefed on operation procedure. Nothing to do, she thought, but to do it. – From Kindred in Death.

She took the stairs, gained herself a little more time, & circled around to his door. What would she say? It couldn’t be the standard here. It couldn’t be the standby: I regret to inform you. I’m sorry for your loss. Not here, not with Morris. Praying it would come to her, it would somehow be the right way, she pressed the bell. In the time that passed, her skin chilled. Her heart thudded. She heard the locks give, watched his lock light go from red to green. He opened the door & smiled at her. His hair was loose. She’d never seen it loose, raining down his back rather than braided. He wore black pants, a black tee. His exotic almond eyes looked a little sleepy. She heard the sleep in his voice when he greeted her. “Dallas. The unexpected on my doorstep on a rainy morning.: She saw curiousity. No alarm, no worry. She knew her face showed him nothing. Not yet. Another second or 2, she thought. Just another few second she broke his heart. Can I come?

It wasn’t every day a guy saw a headless beaver marching down the side of a road, not even in Chicago Stars quarterback Dean Robillard’s larger than life world.
